Expects a Big Advance.

B. P. Basher, of Denver, has returned to the city. Mr. Basher bought Salt Lake property three years ago and has been so property three years ago and has been so well satisfied with the advances it has made that he has held on to every foot of it. To The Herallo reporter he said he expected to stay by it until it was worth many times more than it is now worth. In five years Salt Lake will be what Denver is to-day, and there will be no reason why its real estate will not be as valuable as that of Denver.

He is your friend when a friend is most needed. He is your friend when you are most distressed. He comes into the sick room of your family with every desire to comfort, console and cure the sick one. His heart is, or ought to be, as full of sympathy as one of the family. Family secrets are imparted to him; he is trusted and honored by the confidence reposed in him; he feels it, and wishes for that feeling to continue—but remember that he is human like yourself, and has wants that must be supplied. He has a family to support, and is dependent upon your aid for the support of that family, as well as himself, as a reward for his labors—labors that weary his heart and his body. He does not like to disturb the pleasant relations existing between himself and the families in which he practices by presenting bills or collecting by law. When that has to be done he cannot approach the bedside of the sick one as he would wish. He feels that he has been neglected, and his patients feel it too, and thus arise unpleasant emotions that ought not to exist.
